

9 June 2003

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

'The Long Good Saturday' comes to St Leonard's Church in the heart of Shoreditch binglybongly productions and Music Together Foundation present a Music Day UK free festival.

Saturday 21st June brings a free musical celebration into the heart of Shoreditch, East London. On the summer solstice - the longest day - and as part of the National Music Day UK festival, binglybongly productions is hosting a unique event in the beautiful St Leonard's Church and gardens, at the junction of Old Street and Shoreditch High Street, London E1.

'The Long Good Saturday' takes place from midday – 8pm, and forms part of the wider Music Day celebrations taking place in East London and 10,000 other cities in 120 countries around the world. Originally launched in France as Fête de la Musique, this year sees the first official London celebration under the name of Music Day UK. More information on the wider festivities across London can be obtained from info@musicdayuk.info.

Entertainments will be aimed at adults and children alike in an atmosphere of fun, creativity and freedom.

In St Leonard's Church gardens there will be a live music stage, with additional music from binglybongly DJs. Capoeira and martial arts displays will be complemented by clothing, jewellery and decorative stalls, face painting, a wishing tree and workshops. Inside the Church, more live music and ambient music DJs. Local artists will be displaying their work, Shiatsu and other holistic therapies are being offered as part of the theme of wellbeing and community.

For more information, please contact Tony Sax on:

020 7739 7661 office.

07733 016 881 mobile.

email: tony@binglybongly.net

web: <http://www.binglybongly.net>

About binglybongly productions

binglybongly productions specialises in upbeat, uplifting music, or binglybongly music.

It was set up to help alleviate, through energising music, the stresses associated with modern living. binglybongly is a collaboration of like-minded people - experienced musicians, performers, artists, set designers and DJ's - working to widen the appeal of positive music to reach a much larger audience, through live events and CD compilation releases. We have adopted an ethical approach to business and its impact on the planet and society, operating using environmentally and socially responsible methods.

15th June 2003 is also binglybongly music's first birthday and we will be celebrating at theSpitz, Old Spitalfields Market, 109 Commercial Street, London E1 with binglybongly magic – more information on the web at <http://www.binglybongly.net/events/magic.html>. This continues a series of monthly binglybongly Sunday parties which were featured in Mixmag's Ultimate 75 Nights Out for March and April 2003 (reaching No 12!)